Short Description

A wine we have been excited about for some time when tasting the component barrels, as the rich fruit and layers of tannins were notable as the wine was maturing in barrel. Some extended skin contact with some parcels of grapes at the end of fermentation has helped to increase the fine tannin structure in the wine. This will also help the wine to age gracefully for those who enjoy cellaring their wines.

A small percentage of Grenache pressings wine was blended in as part of the assemblage, adding some perfume and fruitiness that gives the wine another layer of complexity.

Following on from our 2015 vintage which won the People's Choice Award for Bendigo's Best Shiraz, and the fuller, riper 2016 vintage which sold out in seven months.

Description

The 2015 vintage was a dry and low cropping season that has produced smaller quantities of outstanding wine.

Picked late in March, the wine is a hands-on style of small batch winemaking using open fermenters and basket pressing.

The wine is displaying the spice and pepper renowned in Central Victorian shiraz with abundant dark fruits and powerful fragrance. Rich and spicy, this is a full flavoured style with soft tannings that will live for years.

Sixteen months maturation in French and American Oak barriques prior to bottling has allowed the wine to develop and soften.
